Barney Barnato's Good Fortune.

It is better to be born lucky than rich. When Mr. Barnato was at Johannesburg, he determined to go to the races. "You'll only lose your money," said his friends warningly. "Well, I won't take any with me," he replied, "And then I shall be all right."

He finds that the removal of the brilliant petals of flowers to which insects are accustomed to resort does not decrease the frequency of their visits, and on the other hand, that when honey is placed on flowers which are naturally scentless, insects immediately begin to flock

Whale-Killing with Electricity. A Canadian sea-captain has invented an apparatus with which he thinks whales can be killed by electric shock. A harpoon is fixed at the end of a long metallic cable, properly insulated, and which serves in place of the usual rope. Through this cable an electric current of 10,000 volts is to be sent by means of a dynamo carried in the whale-boat. The inventor believes that no whale would be able to withstand the shock it would receive the instant the harpoon

Courtesy a Duty. While admitting a tendency on the part of many women to accept all courtesles from the opposite sex as a right. some of the statements made under this head have been greatly exaggerated. It has been said that women habitually accept an offered seat in a public conveyance without thanks. That some women are thus discourteous, it is true; but the cases are exceptional. There is another side to the story, as there is to most stories. There are ways of offering a seat which hopelessly preclude thanks, and may expose the recipient of the attention, if attention it can be
